Six high courts hearing Covid cases is creating some confusion and diversion of resources, says bench; experts want HCs to stay in play

KANU SARDA @ New Delhi

THE Supreme Court on Thursday took suo motu cognisance of the health emergency caused by Covid-19 pandemic though a clutch of high courts are already seized of the matter; a decision that was panned by a section of senior lawyers.

A bench headed by Chief Justice of India S A Bobde took note of the fact that high courts of Delhi, Bombay, Sikkim, Madhya Pradesh, Calcutta and Allahabad were dealing with issues related to Covid and asked the Centre to present a national plan to face the health crisis.

"The situation in various parts of the country is grim. There seems to be a sudden surge in the number of Covid patients and mortality. Nonetheless it seems that a certain amount of panic has been generated and people have invoked the jurisdiction of several high courts in the country seeking relief," the order read.

"They (HCs) are exercising jurisdiction in best interest. But it is creating confusion and diversion of resources," the bench observed, adding, "We are almost in a national emergency."

"The high courts have passed certain orders which may have the effect of accelerating and prioritizing the services to a certain set of people and slowing down the availability of these resources to certain other groups whether the groups are local, regional or otherwise," the detailed order stated. The bench said it intended to transfer to itself some of the related issues pending in various high courts.

But senior advocate Mukul Rohatgi later said he completely disagreed with the view of the Supreme Court. "High Courts are competent to deal with the issue as it unfolds in the concerned state... It's a retrograde step. High Court will become redundant now," he reasoned.

Appointing senior advocate Harish Salve as amicus curiae to assist it, the bench issued notice to the Centre and posted the matter for Friday, the last working day of CJI Bobde. Justice N V Ramana will take over as the next CJI on Saturday.

During the hearing, Solicitor General Tushar Mehta asked the bench, "Do we respond to high courts now or we respond here?" "We will issue notice to the Centre and then we will issue notice to high courts and eventually we will bring some issues here. All we want is a national plan on these issues," the CJI said. The bench told Mehta it didn't intend to supersede any order of the high courts as of now.

Ensured oxygen supply to states, says Centre

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ New Delhi

States' O₂ quota raised

In view of the surge in oxygen demand due to an exponential rise in number of Covid patients admitted in hospitals, the Centre has raised the quota of oxygen for states

AMID reports of acute shortage of oxygen in some states and instances of some private hospitals moving court for urgent directions to ensure timely supply of the life-saving gas, the Centre on Thursday said it is giving 6,822 MT of liquid medical oxygen per day to 20 states against a demand of 6,785 MT/day. The announcement came after a high-level meeting chaired by Prime Minister Narendra Modi to take stock of the situation.

In the review meeting, the PM stressed on increasing production of oxygen, raising the speed of distribution and using innovative ways to provide oxygen support to health facilities. He also said that states should come down heavily on hoarding.

According to the Centre, availability of liquid medical oxygen has been raised by 3,300 MT per day with contributions from private and public steel plants, industries, oxygen manufacturers as well as through prohibition of supply of oxygen for non-essential industries.

Modi also said there is a need to fix responsibility with the local administration in cases of obstruction and also asked ministries to explore various innovative ways to increase production and supply of oxygen.

Covid situation precarious, says Delhi HC

NEW DELHI: Observing that the Covid-19 situation in the National Capital has turned 'precarious', with many hospitals running out of oxygen, the Delhi High Court on Thursday directed the Central Government to ensure the all-important gas is supplied to the city as per the planned allocation, and without any hindrances. "As it stands, we all know that this country is being run by God," observed an anguished bench of Justices Vipin Sanghi and Rekha Palli, which was of the view that all measures should be taken for removing obstructions in the transportation of oxygen. If the government wants, it can do anything and can even make 'heaven meet Earth,' it said.

1 cr doses @ ₹400 cr, over 90 tankers for O₂

BALA CHAUHAN @ Bengaluru

WITH two days to go for the opening of registrations for inoculation of those aged between 18 and 44 years, Chief Minister B S Yediyurappa on Thursday approved the purchase of one crore doses of Covid-19 vaccines at a cost of ₹400 crore.

The state will place an order for Covishield from Serum Institute of India, Pune. The company which is producing the Oxford-AstraZeneca vaccine in India, has set the price at ₹150 per dose for the Union Government, ₹400 for state governments and ₹600 for private hospitals.

The vaccine doses will be administered to citizens aged between 18 and 44 starting May 1.

Meanwhile, the supply of oxygen is being streamlined in Karnataka and almost all 94 tankers carrying industrial gases are being put to use for emergency medical purposes, according to industry sources.

"There are 94 tankers in the state of which 45 carried liquid oxygen and the rest carried other industrial gases like nitrogen and argon. With very few exceptions, almost all the tankers have been flushed off the other gases and are being used to supply medical oxygen," said the sources.

The government is also looking at other resources and suppliers to further augment oxygen supply to the state.

"While the oxygen plants have accelerated their production, there are not enough tankers to carry it," the sources pointed out.

Lockdown? Or not? Alarm bells go off

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

JUST a day before the weekend lockdown was to come into effect, confusion and a sense of panic prevailed in many parts of the state with several shops and businesses being ordered to close down by the local authorities.

The cause of this was a State Government clarification, released on Thursday, to the April 20 guidelines ordering a majority of shops and commercial establishments, that were not exempted from closure, to remain closed until 6 am on May 4.

BBMP MAKES PLANS FOR BEDS AND DEAD

Final rites of those who succumb to Covid would be allowed to be performed in all 13 crematoriums in the city

Home Minister Basavaraj Bommai and Revenue Minister R Ashoka inspect a crematorium in Bengaluru on Thursday

Funerals ok on farms now, says BBMP chief

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

THE State Executive Committee has permitted the cremation and burial of the Covid dead at land or farmhouses owned by family members or relatives of the deceased, strictly adhering to guidelines by the BBMP Chief Commissioner and other authorities.

This comes on the back of BBMP Chief Commissioner Gaurav Gupta taking cognizance of the rising number of bodies arriving at crematoriums. He said the rush was because of those outside BBMP limits bringing the deceased for cremation to BBMP-designated crematoriums.

On the directions of the State Government, areas outside BBMP limits in rural areas are also being identified to cremate the deceased, he said. This also comes after a number of requests by family members of the deceased for the same.

Now with the steep increase in the number of Covid cases requiring treatment in hospitals, Revenue Secretary N Manjunatha Prasad noted that the number of deaths in the state is rising steadily. Prasad also noted that it was prudent to swiftly and respectfully dispose of the body in a decentralised manner, keeping in view the circumstances. This is also an attempt to avoid crowding at burial grounds and crematoriums.

On Wednesday, Deputy CM Dr C N Ashwath Narayan had announced that with immediate effect, the final rites of those who succumb to Covid would be allowed to be performed in all 13 crematoriums of the city. The problem of burials was also discussed with Gupta, and the DyCM said that steps were being taken to make arrangements for the dignified burial of those who lose their lives due to the pandemic.

Home Minister Basavaraj Bommai and Revenue Minister R Ashoka on Thursday led a large team of BBMP officials to a specially designated burial ground on the outskirts of Bengaluru to help deal with the shortage of land in the city. Here, 20 bodies can be disposed of at any given time. The team checked the place for ease of access and parking space.

Cops, officials to inspect hospitals

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

To ensure 50 per cent of beds in private hospitals are allocated for treating Covid patients, senior officers from the police department and BBMP will conduct joint inspections of private hospitals in Bengaluru from Friday.

In 2020, private hospitals had allocated 11,000 beds for Covid patients and this year, so far, 7,000 beds are allocated, and they need to make another 4,000 beds available, Home Minister Basavaraj Bommai told the media after holding a video conference with BBMP chief commissioner, police commissioner and other senior officers.

The teams consisting of BBMP Joint Commissioners and DCPs will inspect hospitals in their jurisdiction in all eight zones in the city. They will verify the claims of hospitals about beds being occupied by non-Covid patients and ensure that 4,000 more beds are allocated for treating Covid patients.

The teams will also provide help to hospitals in maintaining law and order, movement of ambulances and supply of oxygen. "We need more beds with oxygen supply. We are taking all steps to get another 4,000 beds in three days and a joint inspection will start from Thursday," the minister said.

Take us into confidence before imposing lockdown: Garment traders tell CM

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

MEMBERS of the Karnataka Hosiery and Garment Association have appealed to Chief Minister B S Yediyurappa to take trade associations into confidence before imposing a decision of complete lockdown.

In an open letter to the CM, made public on Thursday, the association spokesperson and former president Sajjan Raj Mehta said, "In spite of a crisis, we have always provided our best services to the government. We are associated with FKCCI and we request you to take trade associations into confidence before imposing any hard decision which affects the economy."

any hard decision which affects the economy."

Referring to the Chief Secretary's circular issued on Wednesday that all shops and establishments except those dealing with essential commodities shut shop, the letter said that shops in Chickpet and Gandhinagar were forced to down shutters by the police, but many other areas in the City were exempted.

The letter also called for considering the entire Bengaluru trade sector as one and act accordingly. "Rules framed by government officials are for entire Bengaluru or Karnataka wherever it is applicable," it added.

Come hail and no water? Pumping hit

S LALITHA @ Bengaluru

THE precarious nature of Bengaluru's complete dependence on Cauvery water being pumped from a distance of nearly 100 km came to the fore on Thursday evening when a hailstorm struck.

A hailstorm at Harohalli in Ramanagara taluk caused a power outage that plunged the area into darkness and abruptly put an end to water being pumped at the pumping station there.

Electricity supply was restored by Karnataka Power Transmission Corporation Limited only an hour later, causing a break in water supply to the city. However, since it was only disrupted for 90 minutes, water supply was not greatly affected, officials said.

How the system works

Bengaluru gets nearly 1,475 Million Litres of Water Per Day (MLD) (since April 4) from the Cauvery. Water is drawn from Shiva Anaicut reservoir to Thorakadanahalli (TK Halli) reservoir in Mandya district from where water is pumped to Bengaluru via three mammoth pumps at TK Halli, Harohalli and Tata-guni pumping stations. Water is pumped at all these stations 24x7 year-round so that Bengaluru gets uninterrupted water supply.

Disruption

Power supply was disrupted around 4.45 pm at Harohalli and restored an hour later, said a top official. "The main power line from Somanahalli to Harohalli, a 220 KV line, tripped, and pumping came to an abrupt halt. After supply was restored, the pumps were switched on. It takes some time for pumping to resume after complete stoppage. So, by 6.10 pm, we were able to resume water supply to the city," he explained.

Asked if the city would be affected, another official said that the Ground Level Reservoirs (GLRs) which store the pumped water across different divisions would have some buffer stock.

COOLING EFFECT

The city received some respite from the heat as moderate rain on Thursday helped bring the temperature down. On the downside, many areas saw power disruptions

NO AADHAAR-RELATED WORK AT POST OFFICES FROM TODAY

Bengaluru: With five postal employees across Karnataka succumbing to Covid-19 virus and 133 employees testing positive, post offices across the state will temporarily stop Aadhaar-related activity from April 22 to May 4. This is due to shortage of work force. An order in this regard was issued by the Chief Postmaster General on Thursday evening. Special counters at post offices facilitate registration for new Aadhaar cards and any changes to be made in existing cards.

DCPs to assist officials in bed availability

ENS @ Bengaluru

IN a bid to assist BBMP Joint Commissioners to ensure the availability of beds for Covid patients at private hospitals, officers of the rank of Deputy Commissioners of Police have been nominated for each BBMP Zone in the city by Police Commissioner Kamal Pant.

In a memo issued on Thursday, Commissioner Pant stated that the nominated DCPs should assist BBMP Joint Commissioners concerned, during the drive undertaken to ensure the availability of the specified number of beds under the government quota in private hospitals. The names of DCPs and the BBMP zones they are deputed to are, Sharanappa SD - East Zone, Anucheth MN - West Zone, Harish Pandey - South Zone, Devaraja D - Mahadavapura Zone, Baba CK - Yelahanka Zone, Sanjeev M Patil - RR Nagar Zone, Dharmender Kumar Meena - Dasarahalli Zone, and Srinath M Joshi - Bommanahalli Zone.

ARIES
(Mar 21 - Apr 20)

Your priority now ought to be to apply a new broom to social affairs and to anything at work that requires collaboration. There is still precious little that you can do to settle a financial question, but, then, is it really important? Perhaps it's not as pressing as people think.

TAURUS
(Apr 21 - May 21)

Over the next few days, disturbing planetary aspects will fade, allowing you to bring personal relationships back to earth. Partners still have a few tricks left, but it should be no big deal. You shouldn't really worry about trivial problems and minor insults.

GEMINI
(May 22 - June 21)

If you grumble about working conditions, or about colleagues' behavior, it will be a waste of time. Every precious moment should be spent completing your own tasks and achieving personal ambitions. And then there's your private life to think about!

CANCER

What you experience now could bring the culmination of a long series of disputes. You may do your bit by pointing out the ethical dimension. In other words, what is right is right for all, not just for a few selfish individuals. The only problem is in getting everyone to agree.

LEO
(July 24 - Aug 23)

At least everything is now open and above board. There can be few people who do not have at least some idea of what has been going on, and probably everyone has an opinion as to what should be done. You can always slip away and let them slug it out!

VIRGO
(Aug 24 - Sept 23)

You have every right to be full of yourself, but remember to give partners a fair hearing. It's not just a question of listening - you should actually hear and understand what their wise words really mean. And if there's anything that's not clear, ask them to say it again!

LIBRA
(Sept 24 - Oct 23)

For the fourth day running everything hangs on money. Questions like what you can afford, or indeed, what you should buy, will dominate your actions. The fact that such issues are so emotionally-loaded makes the answers rather difficult and somewhat elusive.

SCORPIO
(Oct 24 - Nov 22)

What you learn or discover in a strange or totally unexpected way will enable you to settle quite a number of scores. You must concentrate on improvements in relationships with children and younger relations for, as you know well enough, the future lies with them.

SAGITTARIUS
(Nov 23 - Dec 22)

What really matters is that after all the emotional dramas and upsets, you will realise the importance of putting home and family happiness above all else. You may still, though, be troubled by secret worries. Perhaps it's time to talk to someone you can trust.

CAPRICORN
(Dec 23 - Jan 20)

Partners may be less upright and more willing to listen today. Teamwork, social and group activities seem to be competitive at the moment, with people increasingly divided into winners and losers. Yet it's not coming top that matters, but doing your best.

AQUARIUS

Tejasvi appeals for drug stocks for state, FM grants

Bengaluru: The Union government on Thursday revised allocation of Remdesivir to Karnataka. Karnataka's allocation for Remdesivir was increased by 25,000 vials a day after the state was provided with 25,352 vials. Earlier in the day, Bengaluru South MP Tejasvi Surya had requested Finance Minister Nirmala Sitharaman, Chemicals and Fertilisers Minister DV Sadananda Gowda, Health Minister Harsh Vardhan and Parliamentary Affairs Minister Pralhad Joshi to substantially increase the supply of Remdesivir to Karnataka. In her tweet, Sitharaman said Tejasvi Surya spoke to her on the shortage of Remdesivir allocation to Karnataka. "Today an additional stock will be given and in the next few days further stocks will be sent." In turn, Surya thanked Nirmala Sitharaman for protecting Karnataka's interest and assisting Karnataka in this crucial hour.

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Mysuru

THE government is making arrangements to increase the supply and availability of oxygen in the state and also that of remdesivir, Health Minister Dr K Sudhakar said on Thursday. Chairing a review meeting in Mysuru, Sudhakar said that he had discussed the matter of additional supply of medical oxygen with Industries Minister Jagadish Shettar and manufacturing companies.

"We might need 1,500 metric tonnes of oxygen for one month and Chief Minister B S Yediyurappa has written to the Centre. I have also appealed to the Union Health Minister about the requirement. As of now, there is no shortage of oxygen. But I agree there may be some lapses as we are in an unprecedented situation which will be addressed soon," he said.

Remdesivir

Sudhakar also said that the state government had made arrangements to address the shortage of remdesivir, even as he pointed out that the World Health Organisation had taken the anti-viral drug off the list of medicines prescribed for Covid-19 treatment.

"As per the clinical protocol by WHO, this drug has been removed from the list. I personally feel steroids like dexamethasone (corticosteroid) might give better results," he told reporters in Mysuru.

"We have sought 1 lakh vials of the drug from the Centre. We had invited tenders for the supply of 70,000 vials of remdesivir and over 20,000 vials have come in the last two days. The rest of the vials will be delivered soon," he said. He also warned that drug control officers would be held responsible if remdesivir is sold in the black market and directed officials to take strict action against those who try to cash in on the situation.

No oxygen shortage in Mysuru

He also denied that there was a shortage of oxygen and beds in Mysuru, and asked hospital managements to be equipped to deal with the spike.

SECOND WAVE SHADOW

Govt lecturers hope for option to work from home

PEARL MARIA DSOUZA @Bengaluru

WITH the number of Covid-19 cases on the rise, lecturers from State government universities are hoping to get some relief and work from home.

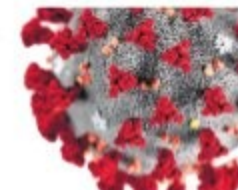

As per university officials, although exams and classes have been put off, lecturers are required for additional duty such as information dissemination and vaccination drive. Lecturers are also needed to help with preparations for pedagogy during the second wave. "As many as 52 of the permanent lecturers are aged over 45, and at least five have undergone treatment. Some principals are free to interpret the department rules about online classes. We have been asked to visit the college and sign and hold online classes from campus. Exams are not completed yet and the next semester is yet to begin. We are awaiting an option to work from home," said a lecturer from a college affiliated to Kuvempu University.

Vice-Chancellor Veerabhadrapa told TNIE that lecturers are needed on campus for preparations and to help principals.

"At least six lecturers have passed away due to Covid-19 since April 15. Work from home option is necessary. All but three of the state universities (a total of 12) have allowed their faculty members to work from home," said Dr Narayan HG, general secretary, Government College Lecturers' Association.

Bengaluru City University Vice-Chancellor Lingaraju told TNIE that lecturers are needed to play a bigger role in these difficult times, apart from teaching and learning.

A few universities such as BNU have allowed lecturers to work from home. Vice-Chancellor Kemparaju told TNIE that the fewer on campus the better. Lecturers have been given the work from home option because they are being exposed to the virus during their commute. VTU V-C Karisiddappa said as most exams, except for the first year students, are complete, lecturers are given work from home for higher semesters.

RELIEF FOR WOMEN, SPECIALLY ABLED

Now, specially challenged staff, including the visually and physically challenged, besides young and expecting mothers are exempted from coming to office. This is applicable for all secretariat employees working in Vidhana Soudha, Vikasa Soudha and Legislators's Home. As per the circular issued by the assembly, all staff and officials working in various government departments (except essential services) are allowed to work with 50 per cent working staff.

He had met the Chief Secretary, requesting him to allow places of worship to open and allow small numbers of people to gather for prayers, considering this is the month of Ramzan. But the government did not consider the request.

MOHAMMED NALAPAD ACCUSED OF THREATENING YOUTH CONG VP

Bengaluru: State vice-president of Karnataka Pradesh Youth Congress Bhavya KR has filed a complaint against Congress leader Mohammed Haris Nalapad and others, accusing them of abusing and threatening her. Bhavya lodged a complaint with High Grounds police on Thursday, stating that Youth Congress state president Raksha Ramaiah and others were setting up a Covid-19 war room at the Congress office on Race Course Road on Thursday. Around 12.45 pm, Nalapad, Bhaskar, Govardhan, Augustine and 15 others came there and allegedly asked them to stop it, hurled filthy abuses at her and threatened her. Nalapad allegedly asked others to remove the computer tables and gestured as if to assault her, she alleged in the complaint. Police registered a non-cognisable report and are looking into the matter.

Discharged from hospital, CM chairs ministers' meet

Bats for back to basics; asks for temporary shelters to keep bodies of victims at crematoriums to avoid hold-up of ambulances

Chief Minister BS Yediyurappa and Deputy CM Dr C N Ashwath Narayan hold a virtual meeting with other cabinet ministers from the CM's home office on Thursday | EXPRESS

@Bengaluru

CHIEF Minister BS Yediyurappa was discharged from Manipal Hospital on Thursday after spending a week there for Covid treatment. Straight out of the hospital, he convened a meeting of Bengaluru ministers via video-conference and pressed that the administration should go back to basics. While he along with Deputy Chief Minister Dr CN Ashwath Narayan hosted the virtual meeting from the chief ministers' home office, ministers R Ashoka, Basavaraj Bommai, Dr K Sudhakar, V Somanna, MTB Nagaraj, ST Somashekhar and K Gopalaih joined from Vidhana Soudha.

Insisting that the number of cases in Bengaluru needs immediate attention, he sought strengthening of fever clinics, teleconsultation for home quarantined persons, monitoring of in-home isolation, primary checks to determine the need for hospitalisation, etc -- measures that helped the Karnataka government handle the crisis during the first wave.

"We have come to a situation where we are unable to control it. Two to three people within a family are getting infected. Wearing masks, sanitising and maintaining dis-ance is the only solution to control the spread. I appeal to the people not to venture out of home unnecessarily.

Strict measures are being taken, don't give room for the police to collect fines for not wearing masks or to punish for flouting rules, and cooperate in the interest of the public," he appealed as he walked out of the hospital. He was admitted on April 16 for Covid reinfection.

On Thursday evening, he instructed ministers to strengthen helplines and add more resources to make them more responsive.

"There is a shortage of ambulances as vehicles taking bodies to the crematoriums are getting stuck for hours because of the long waiting period for cremation. It has been instructed to create a temporary shelter for bodies within the crematorium," a statement from Yediyurappa's office said.

The meeting also agreed that volunteers can be roped in to assist in all Covid-related management. The chief minister asked zonal DCPs to visit private hospitals in their jurisdiction and ensure 80 per cent of beds are reserved under the government quota for Covid patients. He also entrusted the responsibility of addressing all Covid-related queries and concerns to nodal officers.

Panic over 'unannounced' lockdown

THIS led to many assuming that the government had suddenly imposed an 'unannounced' lockdown and the police were rushed to implement it.

The fear of a lockdown saw people even in services exempted from closure — like construction and industries — preparing to leave for their hometowns.

The confusion prompted a further clarification from Chief Secretary P Ravi Kumar on Thursday evening reiterating that construction sector and industries were allowed to function through the curfew with Covid-19 safety norms. Scenes of commotion were witnessed across the state. In Bengaluru, shops in Chikpet and Gandhinagar areas were the first to be forced shut.

On the other side of the city, the Airport police ensured closure of all shops at the airport except takeaway coffee, tea and food. But the scenes wrongly conveyed the picture of a forced lockdown. Only those shops and commercial establishments that were not exempted from closure were asked to shut. These included garments stores and shops that were selling items not categorised as "essentials" in the earlier guidelines. But that was not clearly mentioned in the April 20 guidelines.

JDS leader and former Chief Minister H D Kumaraswamy, who is in hospital after testing positive for Covid-19, lashed out at the government, calling it a "Tughlaq Darbar" for forcing shop owners to down shutters without proper guidelines being issued in advance.

He questioned on whose permission these shops were being forced shut. He said that following Governor Vajubhai Vala's meeting on Tuesday, the Chief Secretary had earlier issued the guidelines. But after Chief Minister BS Yediyurappa was discharged from hospital, he held a meeting with his ministers.

"According to the previous guidelines, there was nothing about closing these shops. But today, without any order or issuance of guidelines, the police downed the shutters of shops," he asked.

Patients lie in corridors at Bidar hospital

RAMKRISHNA BADESHI @Bidar

IMPROPER handling of the situation and lack of accurate details on the availability of beds and ventilators have turned Covid situation horrible in Bidar district.

Many Covid patients were seen lying on the ground at the Bidar Institute of Medical Sciences (BRIMS) Hospital on Wednesday. The situation is so desperate that they have told doctors that they are willing to get treated lying on the corridors of the hospital.

Deputy Commissioner R Ramachandran visited the hospital premises on Wednesday evening. Though he did not deny that Covid patients were lying on the ground at the hospital, he said a majority of them were attendants accompanying the patients.

He admitted that there is pressure on the hospital staff as people from different taluks are rushing to the hospital, even with minor symptoms. The administration has made arrangements, including at

Zira Conventional Hall with 200 beds, Shahin PU College of Bidar with 100 beds and the government has opened Covid hospitals at Basavakalyan, Humnabad, Aurad and Bhalki. Government doctors have been deputed at all these centres. But still, people are rushing to BRIMS instead of taking treatment at these hospitals, he said. As per the bulletin, 905 beds are available, while there are 2,822 active cases in the district.

After the DC visited BRIMS, officials helped Covid patients shift to other hospitals, and the situation has improved, sources said.

Bhimappa Auradkar, who has come for the treatment of his brother, said that he did not go to the hospital at Aurad as he was apprehensive of the treatment there.

KPC working president Es-hwar Khandre, who is also the MLA from Bhalki, said his followers found out that not all of them lying on the corridors at BRIMS were Covid patients. Though the DC is doing good work, some officials, including the district health officer, are not responding properly to the woes of the patients, he alleged. There is no proper coordination between officials. They could have created awareness on different hospitals available for Covid treatment, he added.

The district is facing a shortage of oxygen. If the administration does not wake up now, patients will be lying on the road, he cautioned.

Bidar district in-charge minister Prabhoo Chauhan said BRIMS is facing tremendous pressure and that he has asked the DC to take care of all patients and to make proper arrangements.

Create mechanism for Remdesivir, oxygen distribution, HC tells state

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

THE Karnataka High Court on Thursday said the State Government should take immediate steps and consider whether it can purchase Remdesivir directly from the manufacturers and distribute it to hospitals in fair manner. It will have to create some sort of mechanism for distribution of oxygen in coordination with suppliers, the court added, while seeking the state's response on the preparedness, with Covid-91 cases expected to peak in the first or second week of May.

A division bench of Chief Justice Abhay Shreenivas Oka and Justice Aravind Kumar passed the order while mentioning the common complaints over sale of Remdesivir in the black market and shortage of oxygen in hospitals. The court also referred to a letter from S Shivakumar, president of the Karnataka State Association of Managements of Nursing and Allied Health Sciences Institutions, to the Chief Justice drawing attention to sale of Remdesivir in the black market, shortage of beds and non-availability of medicine he had himself experienced before he was admitted to an hospital for Covid-19 treatment.

Handing over a copy of the letter to the government counsel, which also has several suggestions to the government, the court said that failure to take action against those selling Remdesivir in the black market and making patients to run from pillar to post for a hospital bed amounts to violation of rights of patients.

The court said the state government should publish the Remdesivir stocks available with drugs stores with their details and phone number, which should be updated daily. Wide publicity should be given to the website, the court said while directing the government to nominate officials and NGOs to supervise whether medicines are being sold in the in black market and beds are being denied to patients.

Referring to ambulances queuing up in front of crematoriums, the court directed the government to step in immediately and create additional facilities for cremation and burial in places where large number of deaths are reported. Prior to this, the government informed the court that the queue was due to breakdown of furnaces in some crematorium due to overburden. The counsel for the petitioners informed the court that the Christian community was facing serious crisis, as there was no place for burial of bodies in Bengaluru and Mysuru.

Small hosps hit most by low O₂ supply

ONE of the biggest reasons for lack of oxygen in hospitals is the "unprecedented" demand created by the huge number of Covid-19 patients and the lack of distribution and supply infrastructure. The spokespersons of some government and public hospitals, on condition of anonymity, said that the Covid-19 situation has "gone out of control" because of the sheer numbers and the burden on the medical resources and hospital infrastructure.

"The big hospitals are well stocked with oxygen. The problem is with the smaller hospitals, which don't have tie-ups with oxygen manufacturers. They neither have enough cash flow to cater to the demand for oxygen in their hospitals nor do they have enough beds or storage capacity for oxygen cylinders," the sources explained.

There are seven liquid oxygen plants in Karnataka out of which four are in Ballari, two are in Bengaluru and one in Koppal.

The young rise up to run Covid war room

BALA CHAUHAN @Bengaluru

A group of young Indians is stepping out to help sick people who are desperately seeking hospital beds, life-saving medicines and resources such as oxygen, plasma donors, ambulances etc at a time when the health infrastructure in the country has almost collapsed.

Aanya Wig, a 21-year-old final year student of Lady Sri Ram (LSR) College, New Delhi, formed a WhatsApp group 'Covid Fighters (India)' after she found people posting urgent requests on Instagram for medical assistance.

"It all started last weekend when we saw how Instagram had an overwhelming number of requests from people asking for leads for hospital beds, plasma, oxygen, ambulances etc. We started ideating on how we could liaise between the sick and the available life-saving resources," said Aanya.

While there is a lot of information floating around on social media on resources, nobody really knows if someone will answer a helpline number. "This is when we came up with the Discord (social media platform) community, which started off with an associate consultant and my friend Arnab and I. We now have more than 4,000 people from across the country on Discord constantly helping each other and reaching out to those in need and verifying resources," she added.

Aanya said there was a need to organise the large number of requests and match them with available resources. "So, we used Google spreadsheet to make a resource deck on which we verify information in real time and put it out immediately on Twitter or Instagram, tagging those who were looking for it," she added.

Avni Sood, a 12th grader from Delhi Public School, Sushant Lok, Gurugram, was one of the first members to join 'Covid Fighters (India)' on April 20. We verify information on essential and life-saving resources, call up listed numbers to check availability and prices. Calls to hospitals and oxygen cylinder providers need to be re-verified every three to four hours since availability is very volatile," said Avni, who volunteered with the group after the government postponed the CBSE exams for Class 12.

"I tweet all verified information regarding beds and oxygen providers every few hours on my timeline, which is further re-directed or tagged to seekers of that information," she said.

FOR the third consecutive day, Karnataka beat its own dubious record of adding the highest number of fresh Covid cases to its tally. The state on Thursday saw a whopping 25,795 cases being added taking the total to 12,47,997 as against 12,22,202 on Wednesday. With this jump, the day's positivity rate shot up to 15.87 per cent from 15.47 per cent the previous day. It marked a 2.11 per cent growth over the Wednesday tally, which is another dubious record set on Thursday.

The general positivity rate has now risen to 5.16 from 5.08 the previous day, indicating the wild spread of infection. The positivity rate was 4.83 on April 4 and it had seen a steady and consistent fall from the peak of 12.54 per cent on September 27 last year.

The state's recovery rate has rapidly slid to 83.16 per cent from a high of 98.06 per cent on January 30. The rate was 84.45 per cent on Wednesday.

The mortality rate, however, is showing some healthy signs as it has been steadily falling, standing at 1.11 per cent now. Health experts explain that the number of deaths is in proportion negligible to the high number of cases adding to the tally. The State Government had aimed to bring the mortality rate below 1 per cent — which has been achieved in Bengaluru at 0.90 per cent.

The toll is now 13,885, up from 13,762 on Wednesday.

The troublesome part of the pandemic for the state at present is its increasing active cases, which are currently under treatment. It has risen to a whopping 1,96,236 cases and is a result of the high number of cases being added daily and considerably low numbers getting discharged. Karnataka ranks third in the highest number of active cases among states. The figure was in the 6,000s towards January-end when the state was moving out of the first wave of the pandemic.

SINCE April last year, on an average 27 police personnel and Home Guards have tested positive every day, taking the count to 9,990, including 107 deaths.

Though the State Government has vaccinated most of the personnel, the challenge is to cover their family members. Praveen Sood, Director General and Inspector General of Police, said that the vaccination drive among the personnel, who number around one lakh, is giving them protection.

Additional Director General of Police (Administration) MA Saleem said that in the first wave, 9,695 police personnel tested positive and in the second (since April 1, 2021), 295 are positive. Sood said that around 10 per cent of the entire police force has tested positive in the last one year. "Unfortunately, we lost 1 per cent of our staff too. Many of them had comorbidities," he said. The department has paid Rs 30 lakh as compensation to the families of each of the deceased and is also offering jobs to one member of the family on compassionate grounds, which is under various stages now.

As of now, around 76,000 cops have received their first dose of the vaccine, and 46,000 the second dose | FILE

Sood said that as of now, 76,000 police personnel have received their first dose of the vaccine and 46,000 the second dose. Some of them - expecting mothers, new mothers and those with ailments - have not taken the vaccination. "We hope to cover all the personnel by April-end," he added. He, however, said that the major challenge is to cover all the family members which they expect to do by May-end.

In the last few weeks, of the 312 policemen who tested positive, over 95 per cent had taken the vaccine, while 294 are in home isolation. "Eighteen are in hospital, and of them, eight had not taken the vaccine at all, while seven are waiting for the second dose. Only three who have taken both doses are infected. We hope that they all will recover," he said.

No bail for two accused in RSS worker's murder

MG CHETAN @Bengaluru

THE Special Court for NIA cases has rejected bail for the two accused in the murder of RSS worker Rudresh, which occurred on October 16, 2016.

Irfan Pasha and Mohammed Mujeeb Ulla alias Mujeeb alias Moula, the alleged members of the Popular Front of India arrested in connection with the case, had moved a bail petition before the court. Their advocate had contended that they had no link with the crime. The defence lawyer had submitted that even the statement of some witnesses had not attributed any overt act by the petitioners, and despite several CCTVs around the crime scene, the images of the petitioners were not found at the relevant time and there was no record to establish they were PFI members.

Objecting, the prosecution had submitted that the matter is very serious, as they intended to create terror in the mind of people, particularly against a class of society, and was committed in broad daylight in a public place using a lethal weapon. And, some witnesses had identified them in the Test Identification Parade and CCTV footage revealed that they were assisting two other accused.

The court observed that the prosecution produced plenty of evidence to establish the accused were involved in the crime, and that mere delay in trial is not a ground for bail. It noted that Asim Shariff, the brain behind the crime, was already rejected bail by this court, High Court and the Supreme Court. "The entire perusal of chargesheet material at this stage indicate that the petitioners were following A2 and A3 (two other accused) on another motorcycle to ensure the execution of the act, and the material on hand reveals that at this stage, there is prima facie case against these accused," Judge Kasanappa Naik said, rejecting the bail petition.

Bed availability on T'gana portal unreliable?

State hospitals found purging beds due to acute shortage of oxygen, leading to mismatch in data on dashboard

DONITA JOSE @Hyderabad

DESPITE stating availability in the 'State dashboard on status of beds', private hospitals are turning down Covid-19 patients requiring oxygen and ICU support, leading to confusion and chaos for families who are spending thousands of rupees ferrying their loved ones between hospitals.

It is learnt that private hospitals are being forced to arbitrarily downsize the bed strength informally as they are facing an acute oxygen shortage.

At 12pm on Thursday, as per the live dashboard on status of beds, Hyderabad district had only 460 oxygen beds available in the private set-up. However, when Express personally enquired with up to 10-12 hospitals, it found the data was largely incorrect.

For the same, Express contacted those hospitals in Hyderabad, which as per the live

Tankers of oxygen being rolled on to the wagons of Mumbai-bound Oxygen Express in Visakhapatnam on Thursday | EXPRESS dashboard had anywhere between 10-50 beds available. However amongst the 12, only two of them stated that they had a handful of oxygen beds available. These ten hospitals cumulatively had about 150-180 oxygen beds, all of which had been wrongly shown to be available in the live tracking website of the government, indicating how the information was unreliable in the time of need.

Majority of the hospitals maintained that they had beds, manpower and equipment but were short on oxygen supply, which is why there was a mismatch between the live dashboard and on ground availability.

For instance, when enquired, the New Life Rehabilitation Centre in Banjara Hills claimed that though they have beds, due to a shortage of oxygen they were forced to accept only stable patients. As per the dashboard, there were 36 oxygen beds and 8 ICU beds available at 12pm. Even big private medical colleges were denying beds.

While Malla Reddy Medical College For Women, Surrara said only normal beds were available despite the bulletin mentioning 46 oxygen beds being vacant, Manta Academy of Medical Sciences- Bachupally shockingly maintained they were not taking Covid-19 patients at all and were dedicated just for non-Covid-19 service. However the college continued to be on the dashboard on Thursday as a treating hospital with over 160 beds available.

Meanwhile, the Telangana Hospitals Nursing Homes Association (THANA) note that oxygen shortage is a reality and that situation could get worse in the coming days as cases rise, as private hospitals, barring 2-3 major hospitals, do not have their own oxygen plants and rely on private distribution. Health Minister Eatala Rajender also noted that he had written to Dr Harsh Vardhan, to assist Telangana's need for oxygen.

Warangal put to test by greedy O₂ suppliers

Warangal: Even as the entire State continues to reel under the second wave of Covid-19, the residents of Warangal are facing the double whammy of dealing with unscrupulous politicians as well as greedy oxygen suppliers. The suppliers of oxygen are trying to fleece the hapless patients by charging exorbitant prices. Faced with acute shortage of oxygen, most private hospitals are asking the kin of patients to find the vital medical gas on their own. Some hospitals are even refusing to admit patients and ask them to go to a facility where oxygen is available. When contacted, Warangal (Urban) DMHO Dr K Lalitha Devi said that there is a shortage of medical oxygen in private hospitals and hoped the situation would change soon.

Ravi and his accomplices with the seized ganja which he used to grow on his farm in Sampane village in Chikkamagaluru district | EXPRESS

Drug peddler held with ganja, arms

MEERA BHARDWAJ @Bengaluru

A drug peddler, who is also allegedly a wildlife hunter with underworld connections, was arrested in Chikkamagaluru district.

In the guise of growing coffee, Ravi alias Ramegowda was growing ganja (cannabis sativa) on his farm and processing them at his farmhouse in Sampane village, near Same. Kudremukh police caught him red-handed on Wednesday with processed drugs, illegal arms, ammunition and wildlife hunting implements.

Police seized 3.2 kg of ganja from his possession and booked him under the Narcotic Drugs and Psychotropic Substances Act, 1985. On a tip-off, police raided his farm and seized illegal arms and ammunition, including one country-made gun, 25 bullets, gunpowder, explosives and a gun bag to store these materials.

Investigations by Kudremukh police team, headed by ASI Kumar, also revealed that he had been involved in hunting wildlife and growing marijuana on his farm.

Ravi (41) came to Sampane village three years ago from Kalasa, and purchased a three-acre farm to grow coffee and support his illegal activities. Search operations revealed his illegal activities and alleged links with the underworld. There are two or three cases booked against him in Mangaluru too.

Ravi was produced before the Chikkamagaluru JMFC court the same evening and remanded in judicial custody till May 4.

According to police, marijuana or ganja has been the most peddled and seized drug in the State in the past two years.

VTU students in a fix after govt circular on vacating hostels

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE

@Belagavi

THE offline examinations for first semester engineering students, being conducted by Visveswaraya Technological University (VTU) in the midst of the crisis from Covid-19, has put several students staying in government hostels in trouble, with the government issuing a circular asking students to vacate hostels.

cate hostels.

While condemning the circular, the All India Democratic Students Organisation said VTU's decision to hold examinations has put the lives of engineering students at huge risk. It may be noted here that the Karnataka High Court had given its nod in January to VTU to hold offline examinations, but the Covid-19 situation then was not grave.

Universities postpone exams, classes

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE

@Bengaluru

BENGALURU City University has decided to postpone classes for semesters 2, 4, and 6 that were to begin on April 20, due to the rising Covid-19 cases and problem in availing public transport. Classes will now start on May 3.

Mysore University also postponed the start of the next semester from April 19 to May 3. Tumkur University has decided to start its even semesters from May 5.

Bangalore North University has indefinitely postponed all its Undergraduate, Post Graduate, BE and MBA examinations due to be held in April, due to the spread of the pandemic and the strict measures taken by the government, keeping students' health as a priority.

After an outbreak of the pandemic on campus, Bangalore University has also asked its teaching and non-teaching staff to work from home from April 22 to April 30. Only essential service staff have been asked to report to office. Lecturers are asked to take online classes until May 4, until further orders.

Bengaluru City University indefinitely postponed its semesters 3 and 5 of MCA course examination commencing April 21, and semester 3 examination of MEd commencing April 21.

OXYGEN SHORTAGE SHOWS UTTER LACK OF PLANNING

We have “only 45 minutes of oxygen left”, a top private hospital in Haryana tweeted on Thursday evening, tagging the Union home minister in its SOS. In the past few days, we have seen the bizarre situation of hospital chains approaching courts for late night emergency hearings for the uninterrupted supply of the gas and even pleading on social media platforms.

This unprecedented situation should never have arisen. It is over a year since the pandemic broke out; medical oxygen is one of the basic requirements and learning from the first wave, production should have been ramped up across the country. The Centre has belatedly woken up and announced that 162 oxygen plants had been sanctioned, of which it says 33 have already been installed. But take the case of Odisha, where seven plants were sanctioned six months ago, with the installation process directly under the Union government. Not one of them is operational yet as complacency set in once corona transmission fell late last year.

With India touching a new high of 3 lakh Covid cases per day, the lack of oxygen capacity has also led to the ugly spectacle of states not allowing the free movement of tankers containing the gas across borders. For instance, the Delhi High Court noted the allocation for the national capital was not being respected by other states. With similar cases in other High Courts, the Supreme Court was forced to step in and asked the Centre to chalk out a national plan, including on oxygen supply.

For now, the Centre is resorting to ad hoc decisions. Its move to divert about 45 metric tonnes of medical oxygen from a plant near Chennai to Andhra and Telangana made officials in Tamil Nadu question the compulsory diversion. The TN Health Secretary, J Radhakrishnan, wondered why the Centre diverted oxygen, when the state—currently one of the few that has an oxygen surplus—would have readily supplied it to others in a crisis situation. This is not the time for arguments and disagreements. The Centre has to come up with a countrywide arrangement for oxygen distribution as the SC pointed out, since impromptu decisions and an inefficient distribution network will only hurt Covid crisis management.

AMID CRISIS, NAVEEN SETS AN EXAMPLE

Two things have been pretty much unstoppable in India—coronavirus transmission and the election juggernaut. And political parties, in states where the Assembly polls were and are underway, have contributed their part to this explosion of Covid, clearly showing their insensitivity during a catastrophe like no other in recent memory. It's another thing none of these outfits—howsoever big or small they are—would own it up. As a result, political campaigns and rallies by leaders mobilising thousands of people have gone on showing contempt to the very cause of Covid-appropriate behaviour they espouse. Odisha Chief Minister Naveen Patnaik, though, has chosen a different path. The BJD boss set an example by deciding his party will no longer hold campaign meetings or public rallies for the bypolls to the Pipili Assembly constituency. The by-election was necessitated after the ruling party's MLA Pradeep Maharathy passed away last year in October. Originally scheduled to be held on April 17, the poll had to be postponed after Congress nominee Ajit Mangaraj succumbed to Covid on April 14. As the EC reset the date to May 13, Naveen came out with an announcement that his party would do nothing that would endanger people's lives. He also urged the EC and other parties to reconsider the duration and modes of campaigning. His detractors might call it posturing but how many political leaders would risk it? In fact, he had switched to virtual campaigning when the by-poll process was underway before being adjourned under unfortunate circumstances.

As the country was in the midst of a vaccine shortage crisis, Naveen was also among the first to call for a liberalised vaccination policy. And two days before the Centre announced vaccination for all above 18, the Odisha CM had shot off a letter to PM Narendra Modi seeking vaccines be made available in the open market so that those who are able to afford it can buy their shots while the government focused on the vulnerable sections of society. In desperate times like these when the country bemoans declining political maturity and civility, Naveen has stood out from the pack.

hatsApp—individual messages and especially groups—has not been much of a feel-good place for some years now. It was just in those initial days of euphoria that it had some charm, when it helped us connect with each other like never before, across continents, across years of separation, all for free. That charm had long faded into shades of the toxic and the hum-drum. But in the last few days, it has turned into something else. It brings on a shudder of trepidation like war-time sirens would at one time. It wraps you in a miasma of foreboding, a dank fog that keeps thickening. You only hear gasps for help, and almost inevitably, the news of what follows, death.

Death has never seemed so wanton, so commonplace before. Charging at you from all directions like Yama's mount, infinitely multiplied into whole rampaging herds. Not a day goes by without being in an aspect of condolence and grief—for those close to you, ever more every day, and for those so far, to whom you feel so near ... lakhs getting added to that list everyday.

There was a time when tribes and nations fought wars over land. Its modern variant has been wars over water—Cauvery being the emblematic one. We have now moved up the elemental chain. India now fights wars over air. Karnataka, a state with surplus oxygen, is refusing to pass on some to Maharashtra. Haryana won't allow oxygen-laden trucks bound for Delhi to cross the Faridabad border. If a surreal dystopia had to shock our inured senses, what better than a scenario where our air supplies are jammed, and our lungs are screaming in despair? For something we breathed in without thinking, except when practising the pranayam or during peak pollution. We watch helplessly as the Second Coming of a mutant beast consumes fellow citizens, friends and family. It's going up like an unearthly chant: no oxygen, no ICU bed. In city after city, state after state. And then the rituals of lament and mourning, accompanying the long march of the morbid. We are all rudaaalis.

How did we come to this pass that a nation is left gasping for breath as we quibble about industrial and medical oxygen? We hear about a manifold, sudden increase of export of the industrial sort leading to an acute shortage, if that's possible. Maybe it's possible. Maybe it's international hoarders trying to create an artificial scarcity in the market for air? Anything is possible these days. Anyway, our esteemed governments are directing industry heads to divert their supply to hospitals, any number of which are putting out doomsday alerts. Just five hours of oxygen left! Just two! Perhaps the sight of hospital CEOs breaking down on video because they can't save their patients moved someone in the places that matter.

Any pandemic is a terrifying spectre; it comes and catches you by surprise from the flanks. But a second wave? Can you be caught by surprise by the same thing a second time? How come it crept upon us so silently when ambulance sirens from around the world could be heard? What were we doing? Navel-gazing? The graph plotting the rate of increase in infections looks like an Indian cobra raising its head—it's an exponential curve,

Even our institutions are running short of oxygen. Look at the poor Election Commission. It fell upon the political leaders to exhibit some voluntary virtue and cancel rallies. Our EC could not gather enough courage to tell them to stay put in the party office lated debt of the state exceeds ₹3 lakh crore. The interest charges surpass ₹20,000 crore at present. If the government had not resorted to borrowings without hesitation, the state could have very well utilised the huge amount of interest for meeting various purposes. The scope for resorting to heavy borrowing again is dim as the state is in the brink of a debt trap.

Revival of agriculture: The crunch in resources calls for caution. An overdependence on outside sources for employment and means of livelihood have weakened productive sectors like agriculture. The state is able to produce approximately only six lakh tonnes of rice against the need for about 45 lakh tonnes per year. Not only rice, but even vegetables raised in the state are not sufficient. Significantly, the country as a whole could withstand the pandemic precisely because of the self-sufficiency attained in food production. Famines 22.94 lakh active cases as of now, with just about every new mutant of the dreaded Sars-Cov-2 freely floating around, invited to our shores. Perhaps there's an Indian cobra or two in the mix too.

Oh, but aren't we so democratic? It's not just that we love our elections. Every political party wants to democratically distribute the seeds of pestilence, all over rally grounds and road shows. Since you're all going to die anyway, might as well go to the Kumbh and book a ticket for ever-after. In 2031—if you're still alive—will you remember who won in Sitalkuchi? Or English Bazar? Or Majuli? Or Thoothukudi? Can you imagine being forced to be engrossed in Didi vs Modi and all the rest of it till the day India started screaming from its deathbed, from footpaths outside hospitals, from pavement funeral pyres? Yes, that's what happened in Ghazipur. In the dead of night, PPE-clad workers burnt corpses without any ritual ad on the footpath outside the crematorium. Kinsfolk of a BJP district-level office-bearer included. In Karnataka, they officially declared the farms fringing Bengaluru as makeshift burial grounds/crematoriums.

India had to literally choke for the election carnival to stop, for any semblance of official recognition that, er ... look here, we have a minor matter of a pandemic on our hands. That there were no medicines, no hospital beds, no oxygen, no vaccine even. And that people were dying like flies. But they paid heed finally. Now, the vaccine, rest assured, will be sold at a nice mark-up to states. That's just an official variant of life-saving medicines being sold for a little profit by honest blackmarketeers. If there's a problem, air will be imported to Atmanirbhar Bharat. Foreign oxygen.

We might need it too. Even our institutions are running short of oxygen. Look at the poor Election Commission. It fell upon the political leaders—from Rahul Gandhi to Mamata Banerjee and now Narendra Modi—to exhibit some voluntary virtue and cancel rallies. Our EC could not gather enough courage to tell them to stay put in the party office or to issue their rousing war-cries from TV studios. Instead, it had ordered silence between 7 pm and 10 am—as if the virus was a nocturnal hunter, or that it could get transmitted through sound. But yes, it's a decree. We sit in silence, obediently, counting our dead.

POLICY OPTIONS BEFORE THE NEW KERALA GOVT

JOSEPH K V

Former Member of the Kerala Public Expenditure Committee

ny government coming to power after an election usually looks at the economic priorities to be pursued during the coming years afresh. Prima facie, the recovery of the economy shattered by the outbreak of Covid-19 poses a major challenge to the government of Kerala. At the same time, the election was fought on the plank of development. How to satisfy the hundred and odd promises showered at the time of election becomes a baffling problem. Shortage of funds adds further dimensions to the whole affair. The options that should be adopted to tackle the manifold problems need careful examination.

Resource crunch: Kerala was able to emerge as an affluent state as a result of the inflow of remittances, being part of the earnings of the migrants from the state in foreign lands. However, basic productive activities like agriculture and industry have stagnated while consumer services have acquired unprecedented expansion. As a matter of fact, economic growth stemmed primarily from activities connected with the provision of various services to the consuming public. Normally, the volume of income earned by various service providers is taken as the criterion for the calculation of GSDP. In Kerala, as service activities widened, the number of people who worked in the services and their remuneration also went up and in turn, the economy grew.

With the outbreak of the pandemic, serious slowdown has occurred in various economic activities of the state. Furthermore, the volume of remittances has recorded a steep fall with little chance for speedy revival. In addition, more than 12 lakh expatriates came back to Kerala with bleak chances for regaining employment. Needless to say, all those developments have resulted in a steep fall in the state revenue.

A shortage of funds has made the functioning of various state activities very difficult. During FY2020-21, the revenue receipts of the state would have been ₹93,115 crore against a total expenditure of ₹1,28,382 crore. The shortage was covered by borrowing ₹34,947 crore, nearly ₹10,000 crore more than the previous year. Liberal grants from the Centre were also helpful.

Huge borrowings signal danger for various reasons. The accumulated debt of the state exceeds ₹3 lakh crore. The interest charges surpass ₹20,000 crore at present. If the government had not resorted to borrowings without hesitation, the state could have very well utilised the huge amount of interest for meeting various purposes. The scope for resorting to heavy borrowing again is dim as the state is in the brink of a debt trap.

Revival of agriculture: The crunch in resources calls for caution. An overdependence on outside sources for employment and means of livelihood have weakened productive sectors like agriculture. The state is able to produce approximately only six lakh tonnes of rice against the need for about 45 lakh tonnes per year. Not only rice, but even vegetables raised in the state are not sufficient. Significantly, the country as a whole could withstand the pandemic precisely because of the self-sufficiency attained in food production. Famines

Promotion of new kinds of industries: Promotion of industries is another measure for reviving the economy. Industrial development is crucial for the creation of employment and also for generating income. Technology-based industries like IT, start-ups, etc., are the best bets for Kerala. They are sure to provide employment to the state's educated youth. However, industrial development calls for an investment-friendly environment. The state has been exhibiting an unfriendly attitude towards private enterprises, apparently on account of ideological reasons. Recently, the state government adopted certain steps designed to promote an investment-friendly environment. It is yet to know how far they have been fruitful.

The attitude of the people at large cannot be modified at will with state policies by themselves. The political parties that mould public opinion can do much in the matter. Whether they will take up the issue and adopt positive steps is the question. If they nurture an investment-friendly environment, it will be a real service that they render to the next generation.

Tourism is a promising field capable of creating large-scale employment opportunities. The potential for the development of tourism, though crippled by Covid-19, is very high. However, it calls for careful promotion to avoid ecological damage.

Development with an emphasis on the growth of productive sectors should be the main thrust of the policy option. The trauma caused by Covid calls for such an approach. The new government would have to keep in abeyance most of the wanton promises made during the heyday of the election campaign because of the government's financial crunch. What is needed is self-reliance in place of overdependence on foreign lands for income and employment.

Strict action against guilty

The death of 24 Covid patients at a municipal corporation hospital in Nashik on account of disruption of oxygen supply to patients is a result of negligence. This comes at a time when hospitals across the country are facing oxygen shortage. Severe action must be taken against the guilty to prevent the recurrence of such man-made accidents in hospitals.

Scramble for jobs

The new vaccination policy is bound to create a scramble in the coming days, however imperative it was as a medical measure. One approach could have been to reduce the minimum eligibility age by five years every month.

M Balakrishnan, Bengaluru

Will help migrants

As the second wave of coronavirus is raging across the country, the Centre took a prompt policy decision to vaccinate all those people aged above 18 years. A large number of young migrant workers from Tamil Nadu and other states are returning home, and this decision to vaccinate should benefit young people.

Lockdown the last option

The prime minister has given a strong message to the nation that in the current situation, a lockdown should be the last option. Every effort should be made by all concerned to contain the exponential growth of the pandemic.

Dharmarajan A K, Thalassery

Shortage of vaccines

My wife and I had availed the first dose of Covishield in a private hospital in early March. As per the current protocols, we are required to receive the second dose after six weeks and within eight weeks of receiving the first vaccine dose. But on contacting the same hospital earlier this month, we were told that the vaccine was not available. I checked with various other hospitals in Kochi and Cherthala and got similar replies. In the meantime, the government had opened up vaccination to people above 45 years of age and now proposes to extend it to those who are above 18 from May 1. I am afraid such unplanned decisions will only result in further shortage of vaccines.

B C Unnikrishnan Nair, Kuthiathode

Why send them abroad?

The complacency of citizens coupled with the nonchalance of the government has led to the resurgence of Covid. We saw with dread how robust healthcare systems in even developed countries crumbled. One is aghast at the vaccine strategy. When the country faces acute vaccine shortage, our government boasts of exporting them to 80 countries.

Smitha Rajesh, Chalakudy

Problem of plenty

It is heartening that the farm sector in India has shown around 2% growth during 2020-21. As rightly pointed out in the editorial (Apr 21), the government has to take appropriate measures to tackle the problem of plenty.

Sarvothama Udupa, Udupi

Lack of development

This is with reference to The reasons behind Mamata's decline in Bengal (April 21). The opinion article is quite right and appeasement of a community is obvious. On a visit to Darjeeling a few years ago, I found that roads were poor and facilities negligible, with no development work there in a decade.

Braja Kishore Maharana, Bellaguntha

Support all businesses

The author has rightly pointed out the need for a new orientation towards our businesses to make economic progress (Time for Jai Jawan, Jai Kisan, Jai Vyapar, Apr 21). But businesses of all kinds need to be supported. Unfortunately, our governments appear to selectively support big businesses.

Bombay High Court orders Centre to restore oxygen supply to Maharashtra

SUDHIR SURYAWANSHI @Mumbai

THE Nagpur bench of Bombay High Court has directed the Central government to restore the oxygen supply to the Maharashtra government. The court called the Central government's decision of reducing the oxygen supply of Maharashtra like a bolt from the blue. The Central government had cut down the oxygen supply of Maharashtra from 110 metric tonnes (MT) to 60 MT from the Bhilai (Chhattisgarh) plant. This oxygen was provided to hospitals in Nagpur. The court said that this "has hit Maharashtra as a bolt from the blue". A division bench of Justices

High courts better at local level: Bar body

Associations and top lawyers say Supreme Court not suitably equipped to rule on matters pertaining to states

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @New Delhi

HOURS after the Supreme Court took suo motu cognizance of the national health emergency caused by the Covid-19 pandemic, the Supreme Court Bar Association (SCBA) opposed the decision, stating that the issue is already pending before various high courts. "Some difficulties are arising at local level and the same are being resolved by various High Courts in view of the local situation. High Courts appear to be best suited to deal with the situation, hence it would be proper to allow the Hon'ble High Courts to continue dealing with the issue," the plea filed by SCBA said.

SCBA submitted that the Supreme Court has consistently held that the power of the high courts under Article 226 of the Constitution is not only vast enough to cover the ambit of Article 32 thereof, rather its ambit travel beyond the latter.

The plea submits that petitions were filed before various high courts and all of them are considering the Covid-related issues and giving directions on an emergent basis keeping in view the local situation within their territorial jurisdiction.

The application states that high courts situated almost invariably in the state capitals, are in a better position to seek immediate reports from the local administration and pass directions and orders for immediate removal of difficulties arising in treatment of the infected patients, depending upon the situation at the local level.

"State machineries are lacking on various aspects and High Courts are suitably dealing with the issues prevailing at the local level," reads the plea. Taking a similar line, former SCBA president Dushyant Dave said: "Any high court would be in a better position to address the local issues. Do we now expect hospitals from far flung states to come to the top court and not approach their high court to address their issues?"

Supreme Court lawyer and Rajya Sabha member Vivek Tankha said: "High courts should monitor at micro level. Supreme Court has neither time nor details to deal with challenges facing the states."

'They are exercising jurisdiction in the best interest, but it's creating confusion'

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @New Delhi

THE Supreme Court on Thursday asked the Centre to present before it a national plan elaborating the measures it has adopted and proposes to take to face the national emergency while taking a suo motu cognizance of the crisis caused by the second Covid-19 wave. The plan has to be submitted today.

CJI: It is an national emergency, we are taking suo moto cognizance of the matter. At least six high courts were hearing issues related to the preparedness of the states and the Centre to deal with the crisis.

CJI: They are exercising jurisdiction in the best interest, but it is creating confusion and diversion of resources because of their priorities. One high court thinks there is a priority for one group and some for another.

other. So, we as the Supreme Court, wish to take suo moto cognizance of certain issues.

Solicitor General Tushar Mehta: Is the Centre still required to make submissions before the high courts after the top court's cognizance?

Justice Ravindra Bhatt, part of the bench: The government should go ahead and adduce its national plan before high courts. The idea was not to supersede high court orders at this moment.

CJI: It was perhaps a better idea for the Supreme Court to hear everything and the matters before the high court could be transferred to it.

Tushar Mehta: Centre will for now inform the high courts about the pendency of the matter before the Supreme Court.

CJI: Let senior advocate Harish Salve (who was appearing in a different case was waiting for his turn during the virtual hearing) be made amicus curiae. Let the national plan be shared with us tomorrow on supply of medical oxygen, essential medicines, method and manner of vaccination, and the power of a court to order a lockdown to check the pandemic spread.

Strict law to ensure smooth passage for oxygen carriers

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @New Delhi

THE Centre has tasked the district administrations, making them personally liable, for uninterrupted movement of oxygen cylinder-carrying vehicles after various reports emerged that their movement was blocked, especially near interstate border areas.

The directives have been issued under section 10(2)(1) of the Disaster Management Act. In its order, the empowered group on logistics, headed by Ministry of Home Affairs secretary Ajay Bhalla, issued directions to all state chief secretaries, stating that no authorities should attach vehicles carrying oxygen.

"There shall be free movement of oxygen-carrying vehicles into the cities, without any restrictions of timing, while also enabling inter-city movement without any restrictions," stated the directive. It added that "the district magistrates, deputy commissioners, senior superintendents of police, superintendents of police and deputy superintendents of police will be personally liable for implementing the directive".

The empowered group has also directed that the state governments shouldn't be imposing restrictions on suppliers and manufacturers of oxygen to supply only to the hospitals located in their states or Union Territories.

Mandated to co-ordinate medical logistics

An official of the Empowered Group said since medical oxygen is an essential health commodity, impediments in supply may critically impact the management of patients. He added that the Empowered Group is mandated for coordinating medical logistics, including medical oxygen and it has reviewed the supply of oxygen for industrial use.

PERSONS IN INDIA HAVE RECOVERED FROM COVID-19

Vax registration for adults from Apr 28

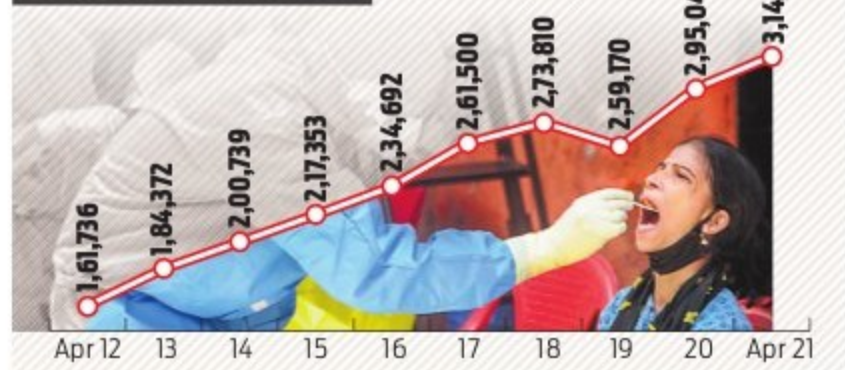

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @New Delhi

ON a day India reported over 3 lakh fresh cases, the highest daily global total tally, the Centre announced that the registration for Covid vaccination will begin from April 28 to carry out inoculations of all adults in the country.

Vaccination for all above 18 years starts from May 1. "It is clarified that #CoWin portal will be made ready for 18+ beneficiaries by 24th April. Registrations for 18+ citizens to book appointments (from 1st May) will begin on 28th April," the health ministry tweeted.

The government, however, also made it clear that vaccination for those in the 18-45 years will be provided by the states or in the private sector while it will fund vaccination for only those above 45 at designated centres from the next month by procuring 50% of all the vaccine supplies directly.

India's daily jump in cases of 3,14,835 surpasses the previous highest one-day rise in the world of 297,430 cases posted by the US in early January. India's total cases are now at 15.93 million, while the confirmed have reached 1,84,65.

Amid reports that Covishield may not be separately available to states till May 25, due to SII's contract with the Centre till then, the health ministry on Thursday refuted such claims. "There have been some media reports suggesting that Serum Institute of India (SII) has contracted all its production till 25th May 2021 to the Centre, and therefore till that date the State governments will not be able to procure vaccine from SII," said the ministry.

These media reports are based on incorrect facts and are without any basis, it added. "...it is very clear that every month out of the total CDL (Central Drug Laboratories) cleared doses available with any vaccine manufacturer, 50% doses would be available for other than Government of India channels," the ministry statement said.

Virus claims Yechury's son

New Delhi: CPI(M) general secretary Sitaram Yechury's son Ashish died of Covid-19 at a Gurugram hospital on Thursday. The death of the journalist who would have celebrated his 35th birthday on June 9 was announced by Yechury and the CPI(M) Politburo. Ashish was recovering at the hospital, people close to the family added, describing his sudden death after a two-week battle as a shock. "It is with great sadness that I have to inform that I lost my elder son Ashish Yechury. I thank all those who gave us hope and who treated him — doctors, nurses, frontline health workers, sanitation workers and innumerable others who stood by us," Yechury said on Twitter.

97% of armed forces given 1st dose

New Delhi: Administration of the Covid-19 vaccine is in advance stages among the personnel of the Army, Navy and Air Force. Half of the forces have completed two doses. "Being frontline workers and healthcare workers, personnel of the services have been vaccinated irrespective of age. By Thursday, 97% of the defence force personnel received the first jab and 75% have received the second jab. Among the services Indian Army has completed 99% first jab and 80% soldiers have got the second jab," said a senior Army officer, Covishield is the vaccine used and extra care is taken to pay attention to the serving personnel, veterans and their dependents.

100 Sikh pilgrims visiting Pakistan test positive

HARPREET BAJWA @Chandigarh

AT least 100 Sikh pilgrims among 815 who went to Pakistan to celebrate Baisakhi have tested positive on their return on Thursday.

The Sikh devotees had gone to Lahore's Gurdwara Panja Sahib on the last day of Baisakhi. Besides visiting Gurdwara Panja Sahib at Hasan Abdal on April 14, they visited Gurdwara Darbar Sahib at Kartarpur on April 19 and other places.

Sources said that pilgrims underwent the mandatory Rapid Antigen Test (RAT) soon after they reached the Joint Check Post situated on Attar Wagah border.

There were reports that many of these pilgrims will be asked to undergo the more dependable RT-PCR test. "Initially, only those who tested negative were allowed to leave for home while others who tested positive are under observation," said an official.

There were also some unruly scenes as some of the pilgrims confronted health staff after their reports came positive, snatching official records, tearing the test reports. They claimed that their reports were negative when they left for Pakistan.

"The devotees were asked to quarantine themselves at their homes as at present, there is no special institution is operational at the government level to quarantine such patients," an official said.

Later, Shiromani Gurdwara Parbandhak Committee (SGPC) president Bibi Jagir Kaur said that those Sikh pilgrims needing hospitalisation one will be treated free of cost at an SGPC-run hospital.

The SGPC had sponsored the pilgrimage. Under the framework of the Pakistan-India Protocol on Visits to Religious Shrines of 1974, a large number of pilgrims from India are allowed to visit the neighbouring country to attend religious festivals every year. Despite the pandemic causing havoc, many went over this year.

Poll panel bans roadshows in WB

Kolkata: Noting that Covid safety norms were being flouted in West Bengal during campaigning, the Election Commission on Thursday banned road shows and vehicle rallies in the state with immediate effect and said no public meeting having more than 500 people would be allowed. Many political parties are still not adhering to the prescribed safety norms, the poll body said.

Goa: Polls to five local bodies today

Panaji: Election for five municipal councils in Goa will be held on Friday with 402 candidates in the fray. The State Election Commission will hold the elections for Mapusa, Margao, Mormugao, Sangem and Quepem municipal councils. The Goa Forward Party has forged an alliance with the Congress in Margao municipal council, while it fights against the BJP-led panel.

She (Mamata) dedicates 10 minutes of her speech in every election rally to abusing the PM and myself... I am the country's home minister, can't I talk to people? How am I an outsider? — Amit Shah, Union Home Minister

You may have earlier voted for the Congress or the Left. Now, they have formed the Sanjukta Morcha. All of them are stooges of the BJP — Mamata Banerjee, West Bengal Chief Minister

Two of my party colleagues are injured after bullets fired by central forces personnel hit them in their legs. Both are undergoing treatment at a nearby hospital —Narayan Goswami, TMC leader

Illegal immigrants are Mamata's vote bank of outsiders, says Shah

I was born in this country and will be cremated here, the HM says in reply to 'outsider' jibe

PRANAB MONDAL @ Kolkata

HITTING hard at the West Bengal chief minister who has branded the BJP as "the party of outsiders", Union Home Minister Amit Shah said illegal immigrants living in the state constituted Mamata's vote bank of "outsiders".

"I was born in this country and will be cremated on this holy land after my demise. But your (Mamata's) vote-bank of illegal immigrants are the outsiders on whose support you want to rule Bengal," Shah said while addressing a rally at Harirampur in the South Dinajpur district.

He said Mamata has no agenda other than to hurl abuses at him and the Prime Minister. "She spends 10 minutes of her speech in every election rally to abuse the Prime Minister and me. I'm the country's home minister, can't I talk to people?"

How can I be an outsider?"

In an attempt to woo the voters of north Bengal, Shah accused Mamata of being ignorant about the development of the region. "North Bengal has been facing stepmotherly treatment by Mamata Banerjee's government. The Left Front and the Congress did the same. Once the BJP form a government, there will be a slew of development activities in this region," he assured. Reiterating the saffron camp's Hindutva rhetoric, Shah said nobody will sneak into the country by crossing the border illegally if the BJP wrests power in Bengal. "If the BJP is voted to power in Bengal, it will ensure that nobody can cross into the state through the borders and jeopardise its security," said Shah.

Fearing BJP, Assam Cong moves MLAs to resort

PRASANTA MAZUMDAR @ Guwahati

WITH the announcement of the results of the Assembly elections drawing near, the Congress has shepherded its Assam candidates to a resort in picturesque Sonapur town on the outskirts of Guwahati. The aim is to keep them safe from poachers. The polls held over March and April were keenly contested between the BJP-headed ruling coalition and the Congress-led 10-party grand alliance of Opposition.

The Congress leaders are more or less convinced that the ruling alliance has been rejected by the people and it is not going to get a majority.

Party spokesperson Bobbeeta Sarma said, "It is an internal matter of the party that they (candidates) want to stay together for a few days in an environment of relaxation".

However, the party's three-time MLA Rupjyoti Kurmi claimed the BJP has started reaching out to the Congress candidates. "Somebody may ask why we are doing this. One must recall how things had unfolded in Goa and Manipur where the BJP had formed the government by buying Congress MLAs. It has started sending feelers to one-two Assam Congress candidates," he said. "The BJP will try and threaten the MLAs from Opposition parties by saying that they will be implicated in some case. It will also try to lure them with money. This brand of politics has to be stopped," Kurmi said. "The BJP has already suffered a big jolt in the elections. Chief Minister Sarbananda Sonowal and Minister Himanta Biswa Sarma had fielded their own candidates," the Congress MLA said, suggesting the BJP had not fielded consensus candidates.

Anti-nationalism: J&K govt to screen employees

FAYAZ WANI @ Srinagar

JAMMU and Kashmir has formed a Special Task Force (STF) to screen and identify government employees allegedly involved in anti-national activities.

Those found to be involved in such activities may lose their jobs, sources warned.

The five-member STF to be headed by Additional Director General of Police, Criminal Investigation Department (CID) has been authorized to identify and scrutinize the cases of the government employees suspected of activities requiring action under the proviso (C) of Article 311(2) of the Constitution of India.

The proviso (C) of Article 311(2) confers powers on state authorities to dismiss or demote public servants without holding recourse to the normal procedure if it is satisfied that their retention in public service is prejudicial to the security of the state.

The STF has been empowered to compile records of such suspected employees and submit the list to the committee constituted last year.

In July 30 last year, a committee headed by J&K Chief Secretary and comprising Administrative Secretary Home department, and Director General of Police among others was set up to scrutinise and recommend cases under the proviso (C) of Article 311(2).

The special task force, according to the order, will engage with other members of the Terror Monitoring Group (TMG) for identifying employees involved in questionable activities.

The task force has been asked to scrutinize such cases in a time-bound manner, and shall receive assistance from the CID.

On April 16, the police arrested a Special Police Officer (SPO) Saima Akhtar, resident of Frisal, in Kulgam district and booked her under the Unlawful Activities Prevention Act (UAPA) and terminated her services for allegedly obstructing security forces while they were conducting a search operation on April 14.

According to the police, the woman lost over 3.98 crore in 207 transactions to 27 different accounts over the last few months. Since Sep 2020, the woman lost ₹3,98,75,500 and approached the cyber cell recently after she realised that she had been duped, police said.

Court acquits Chhota Rajan of murder

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ New Delhi

A special CBI court on Thursday acquitted underworld don Chhota Rajan and his aide in connection with the murder of Hanif Kadawala, an accused in the 1993 Mumbai serial bomb blasts case.

Rajan (62) and his associate Jagannath Jaiswal, charged with murder and other offences under the stringent Maharashtra Control of Organised Crime Act (MCOCA), was acquitted by special CBI court judge A T Wankhede.

Kadawala transported weapons to Mumbai on the instructions of Tiger Memon, a key accused in the terror attack, and they were used in the 1993 blasts, which had killed more than 250 people.

Kadawala was killed on February 7, 2001, in his office here by three men. The CBI, which probed the murder case, had alleged that Rajan ordered the killing of Kadawala to gain publicity.

Prior to this, Rajan had ordered the killing of several other blasts accused, the central agency had said.

Rajan and his aide were acquitted by the court for want of evidence, their lawyers said.

There was no evidence against Rajan. In fact, it is on record that the contract of killing Kadawala was given by the Guru Satam gang and Ravi Pujari gang.

"Rajans name was mentioned in this case only to misguide the investigating agency, Rajans lawyer Tushar Khandare said. It was for want of cogent evidence that both the accused were let off by the court, Jaiswal's lawyer said.

Maoists claim they shot down two drones

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Raipur

A day after senior police officials in Chhattisgarh rubbished claims by Maoists that security forces used drones to attack their cadre in the Bijapur district, the outlawed group on Thursday claimed their military wing shot down two drones and asked the media and neutral parties to visit the spot to find out the "truth".

In a statement on Thursday, the south sub-zonal bureau of CPI (Maoist) asked the Bastar inspector general of police to send "mediators" to the area where the attacks happened to "know the reality". The Maoists alleged that the "airstrike" was planned at the behest of the Union Home Minister Amit Shah, senior security advisor K Vijay Kumar, special DG (anti-Maoist operation-Chhattisgarh) Ashok Juneja and executed by the National Investigation Agency (NIA).

India joins search for missing Indonesian vessel

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ New Delhi

INDIAN Navy dispatched its Deep Submergence Rescue Vessel (DSRV) on Thursday to assist the Indonesian Navy in the search for one of its submarines that went missing on Wednesday.

"On 21 April, an alert was received by Indian Navy through International Submarine Escape and Rescue Liaison Office (ISMERLO), regarding the missing Indonesian submarine," Indian Navy said in a statement.

India is one of the few countries that have a naval force capable of complex missions in the deep waters. "The site of the accident is almost 2500 nautical miles away, and the ship may take almost a week to reach there."

Shipping Corporation of India's vessel Sabarmati has set sail along with the DSRV as the latter needs supporting equipment to operate. "SCI Sabarmati will be the platform—on board which controls, navigation, and monitoring will be performed," sources said.

The Indonesian submarine went missing with a 53-member crew off the coast of northern Bali.

State's tourism sector takes a beating amid second wave

Uttarakhand's tourism industry has started feeling the heat of the second Covid wave. In recent days, more than 50% of hotel bookings have been canceled. People who make a living out of the state's tourism industry are worried about another year of dull business. Ved Sah, secretary of Nainital Hotels and Restaurants' Association said, "More than half of the bookings have been cancelled in Nainital. This is like the last year when the complete lockdown deliver tourism industry of any business. We don't know how many of us will be able to sustain under the present circumstances with the pandemic raging." Similar reports have emerged from other parts of the state—Mussorie, Ramnagar (home to Corbett Tiger Reserve) and Mukteshwar. Officials of the Corbett Tiger Reserve said a large number of reservations have been cancelled.

Migrant workers flee fearing lockdown

Fearing another lockdown, migrants working in mining and industrial areas of Uttarakhand have started fleeing the state. Concerns mounted after night curfew was recently extended to all districts of the hill state. Sunil Narang, owner of a plywood factory in the industrial area of Rudrapur said, "More than 150 workers, out of a total of about 300, have left for their homes in Uttar Pradesh, Bihar, Madhya Pradesh and other states. They hurriedly left after the CM announced a night curfew in the state." Many factory owners said production works have been halted due to a paucity of workers.

More students moving from private to govt schools

A study sanctioned by the Administrative Training Institute, Nainital (ATI) in Uttarakhand has found that an increasing number of students are moving from private to government schools. The study was conducted by Malika Pandey, a former research fellow at the ATI in 18 blocks of the state's four districts—Nainital, Bageshwar, Almora and Champawat. "The most significant and noteworthy theme is the reverse migration from private to public schools. This trend developed even before the pandemic in several government schools and is expected to further increase, as a result of Covid-19," says the report.

At 'moment of peril', Biden opens virtual global summit on climate

Japan raises emissions reduction target to 46%

Tokyo: Japan's Prime Minister Yoshihide Suga on Thursday announced an ambitious target for cutting greenhouse gas emissions, hours before he was to join the virtual climate summit. Suga said Japan will strive by 2030 to cut its emissions by 46 per cent. AP

Xi reiterates carbon emissions pledge

Washington: At the summit, China's President Xi Jinping reiterated his country's pledge to peak carbon emissions before 2030 and achieve carbon neutrality before 2060. He said, "We must be committed to green development. To improve the environment is to boost productivity." AP

Boris for investment in climate action

London: UK PM Boris Johnson on Thursday said he is confident the world can build back better from the Covid-19 pandemic if it "builds back greener" and that the richer nations of the world would need to take the lead on investments.

Special Presidential Envoy for Climate John Kerry listens as President Joe Biden speaks at the virtual Leaders Summit on Climate at the White House in Washington on Thursday.

WASHINGTON

SAYING the United States and other big economies "have to get this done," President Joe Biden opened a global climate summit on Thursday aimed at getting world leaders to dig deeper on emissions cuts. The US pledged to cut in half the amount of climate-wrecking coal and petroleum fumes it is pumping out.

"Meeting this moment is about more than preserving our planet," Biden declared, speaking from a TV-style set for a virtual summit of 40 world leaders. "It's about providing a better future for us all," he said, calling it "a moment of peril but a moment of opportunity." "The signs are unmistakable, the science is undeniable. The cost of inaction keeps mounting," he added.

Biden's administration is sketching out a vision of a prosperous, clean-energy US where factories churn out cutting-edge batteries for export, line workers re-lay an efficient national electrical grid and crews cap abandoned oil and gas rigs and coal mines.

His commitment to cut US fossil fuel emissions up to 52% by 2030 marks a return by the US to global climate efforts after four years of withdrawal under President Donald Trump. Japan, a heavy user of coal, announced its new 46% emissions reduction target on Thursday before the summit opened.

The Biden administration's pledge would require the most ambitious US climate effort ever, nearly doubling the reductions that the Obama administration had committed to in the 2015 Paris climate accord.

The new urgency comes as scientists say climate change caused by coal plants, car engines and other fossil fuel use is worsening droughts, floods, hurricanes, wildfires and other disasters and that humans are running out of time to stave off most catastrophic extremes of global warming. But administration officials, in previewing the new target, disclosed aspirations and vignettes rather than specific plans, budget lines or legislative proposals for getting there.

Biden and Vice-President Kamala Harris opened the Earth Day summit from the White House before world leaders, including those from China, Russia, India, Gulf oil states, European and Asian allies and island and coastal nations struggling against the effects of climate change. With the pledge from the US and other emissions-cutting announcements from Japan, Canada, the EU and the UK, countries representing more than half the world's economy will have now committed to cutting fossil fuel fumes enough to keep the earth's climate from warming more than 2.7 degrees Fahrenheit (1.5 degrees Celsius), the administration said.

BOMB BLAST IN PAK HOTEL PARKING KILLS 5

KARACHI

A POWERFUL bomb blast in the parking area of a luxury hotel in the restive southwestern Pakistani city of Quetta has killed at least five persons and injured 12 others, authorities have said, dismissing reports that the Chinese ambassador was present in the building when the explosion occurred.

The blast took place in the parking lot of the Serena Hotel in Quetta on Wednesday night. Several vehicles parked in the area caught fire after the blast. According to some initial reports, the hotel was hosting Chinese Ambassador Nong Rong. Initial investigation has revealed the blast was caused when explosive material, fitted inside a car was detonated, said police.

A fire brigade immediately arrived at the parking area to douse the flames. Firefighters were able to extinguish the fire. The windowpanes of nearby Balochistan assembly, High Court and other buildings were smashed due to the impact of the blast.

The banned Tehreek-e-Taliban Pakistan has claimed responsibility for the blast.

A spokesman for the TTP said, "Our suicide bomber used his explosive-filled car in the hotel." However, police said that the initial investigation revealed that the explosive device was planted in a car that was parked in the hotel's parking area.

Inspector General of Balochistan Muhammad Tahir Rai said that police were still gauging the intensity of the blast. In response to a question, he said no ambassador or members of a foreign delegation were staying at the hotel when the blast occurred. AP

Second wave biggest risk to recovery: RBI

The spike in daily new cases and associated local lockdowns may dampen demand for contact-intensive sectors

Low base main reason for high growth estimate

While most economists still expect growth to be above 10 per cent in FY22, the MPC believes that this is essentially due to an all-time low base. "Projected growth will translate to a meagre average growth rate of 0.85 per cent in two years following 2019-20," said Mridul Sagar

SESA SEN @ New Delhi

THE six-member Monetary Policy Committee (MPC) of the Reserve Bank of India (RBI) believes that the dramatic surge in Covid-19 infections is the single biggest risk to India's economic growth.

According to the minutes of the latest policy meeting released Thursday, the spike in daily new cases and associated localised lockdowns could dampen demand for contact-intensive sectors, slow consumption demand and large investments, restrain growth impulses, and prolong the return to normalcy, the members said, justifying their decision to opt for an accommodative stance to support growth.

"Improving demand conditions, investment enhancing measures by the government impart upside to growth prospects. The rapidly rising cases of Covid-19, however, is the single biggest challenge to ongoing recovery in the Indian economy," said RBI Governor Shaktikanta Das. All six MPC members had unanimously voted to keep the rates unchanged during the MPC's April meeting amid rising uncertainty regarding the second wave and a recent sustained rise in retail inflation.

Among other members, Mridul Sagar felt that the localised lockdowns could push growth normalisation further out by a few more quarters, while Ashima Goyal stressed the need to expand RBI's balance sheet to buy government securities so as to keep financial conditions in check.

Shashanka Bhide noted that the improvement in the second half of FY21 was fragile and said that what was needed to sustain economic revival was a broad-based recovery covering all the production sectors, MSMEs, and employment to support consumption demand.

RBI Deputy governor Michael Patra, meanwhile, noted that the demand pull was still weak and that risks to recovery have become accentuated since the February meet. He further added that the inflation print of February reflects the effects of the pandemic in the form of input cost pressures—though still muted in translating into selling prices—retail margins, and increased costs of doing business as supply chains are still mending. Sagar also pointed out that recovery can come under risk if this new wave of infections is not flattened soon. However, the RBI also refrained from giving any explicit forward guidance.

Centre asks banks to foot the bill for interest-on-interest

ANURADHA SHUKLA @ New Delhi

WHILE Indian bankers had approached the Union finance ministry for support in making the interest-on-interest payments arising out of the Supreme Court's order in the loan moratorium case, the ministry has categorically told them that banks would have to foot the ₹8,000 crore bill and that the government was, by no means, going to bear the cost. Neither fully, nor partially.

According to sources in the ministry, bankers had approached the Department of Financial Services seeking a bailout, or at least a way to share the burden. However the DFS turned down the request and advised them to go ahead with making the payments.

"Currently the finance ministry is not going to pay for it. Banks have to bear the cost. This is nothing new. They were informed well in advance. Both the government and the central bank is together in this," a senior finance ministry official interest for accounts that had sought a moratorium last year, and that the amount so collected must be refunded to the loan account. According to reports, banks will have to pay ₹8,000 crore they had collected during the moratorium period to customers.

After being turned down by the DFS, bankers had also approached the central bank. However, sources said that the RBI was not inclined to mediate in the matter and has told the banks to work as per the directives of the Supreme Court.

In October 2020, the government had announced a scheme to waive compound interest for loans below ₹2 crore in an effort to give relief to small businesses and lenders. This covered education, housing, auto, consumer durables, loans advanced to MSMEs, and credit card dues.

According to bankers, while most banks have provided for this cost, the recent surge in the Covid cases has raised concerns. "We will wait till the first week of May to see how the curve is looking and whether there is need for another moratorium, just in case," a senior banker from a private sector bank said.

FUNDING

Govt permits CSR spending for makeshift Covid hospitals

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

THE Centre has allowed corporates to classify spending on setting up makeshift Covid-19 treatment centres under their Corporate Social Responsibility (CSR) fund.

In a statement, the central government said, "... where in it was clarified that spending of CSR funds for Covid-19 is an eligible CSR activity, it is further clarified that spending of CSR funds for 'setting up makeshift hospitals and temporary COVID Care facilities' is an eligible CSR activity under item nos. (i) and (xii) of Schedule VII of the Companies Act, 2013 relating to promotion of health care, including preventive health care, and, disaster management respectively".

The order from the Ministry of Corporate Affairs (MCA) added that the companies may undertake the aforesaid activities "in consultation with state governments subject to fulfillment of Companies (CSR) Rules, 2014".

On January 22 this year, the ministry had also issued a similar order saying that spending funds on awareness campaigns and public outreach programmes to promote vaccination against the infectious disease would be considered as an eligible candidate for CSR activity.

On Wednesday, India added more than 300,000 cases while over 2,000 patients died, both new records. The order will help many company to come forward to set up such hospitals with oxygen facilities.

FITCH AFFIRMS INDIA'S SOVEREIGN RATING, RETAINS NEGATIVE OUTLOOK

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

GLOBAL ratings agency Fitch Ratings on Thursday affirmed India's BBB- sovereign rating with a negative outlook as the second wave of the pandemic continues to result in a sharp increase in the case count. However, while the agency noted that the second wave may delay India's economic recovery, it is unlikely to derail it.

Fitch also projected a 12.8 per cent recovery in GDP in the fiscal year ending March 2022 (FY22), which it expects to moderate to 5.8 per cent for FY23. Fitch estimates India's GDP saw a contraction of 7.5 per cent in 2020-21. Meanwhile, S&P Global projected a 11 per cent growth rate for India in the current fiscal, but warned that the control of Covid-19 remains a key risk for the economy.

Fitch said its India's negative outlook "reflects lingering uncertainty around the debt trajectory following the sharp deterioration in India's public finance metrics due to the pandemic shock from a previous position of limited fiscal headroom. Fitch has maintained a BBB- rating for India since August 2006, but its outlook has seen-sawed due to the pandemic and the challenges associated with high public debt.

Fitch echoed S&P's reading that the second wave poses increasing downside risks for FY22, but added that while it "may delay the recovery, it is unlikely... to derail it".

"We expect pandemic-related restrictions to remain localised and less stringent than the national lockdown imposed in 2Q20, and the vaccine rollout has been stepped up," it added.

India's case count has surged, recording 3,12,731 new infections in 24 hours—the highest daily case count in a single country since the outbreak last year. Over the past few days and weeks, serious medicine and medical equipment shortages, such as for oxygen and prescription drugs have surfaced.

India electric vehicle sales tumbled sharply during last fiscal year: SMEV

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

THE Society of Manufacturers of Electric Vehicles (SMEV), an industry body for the electric vehicle industry, released data on Thursday that shows that the pandemic has had a hard impact on the demand for electric vehicles in India. According to the statement, the sales of EVs in India fell by a sharp 20 per cent in financial year 2020-21 to 2,36,802 units.

In 2019-20, the Indian market had witnessed overall EV sales of 2,95,683 units.

Segment-wise in FY21, electric two-wheeler (E2W) segment sales declined by 6 per cent to 1,43,837 units compared to 1,52,000 units in FY20—the FY21 E2W sales included 40,836 high-speed and 1,03,000 low-speed E2Ws. The E3W segment registered sales of 88,378 units as against 140,683 units in FY20. However, the data doesn't include E3Ws that are not registered with the transport authority, SMEV clarified.

Meanwhile, in the pricey E4W segment, the industry recorded a registration of 4,588 units, compared to 3,000 units in FY20, a jump of 53 per cent.

Commenting on the performance, SMEV Director-General Sohinder Gill said, "We were anticipating a good growth before the start of FY21, but sales remained stagnant due to various reasons. The sales in the electric three-wheeler and two-wheeler segment stood low as compared to last year." He added, however, that one good thing that has happened is that people have started moving towards advanced lithium-ion batteries, with the city-speed and high-speed E2W category seeing growth.

"However, a lot more needs to be done to achieve the target under the FAME II scheme. Timely intervention by the government in a form of policy change is required to fuel the growth," Gill asserted, adding that a strong bank finance mechanism for EVs was still missing in India.

Concerns on retail loan asset quality re-emerge as Covid curbs intensify

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

AS the second wave burns through the country and lockdowns intensify, non-banking financial companies (NBFCs) and housing finance companies (HFCs) could see a re-emergence of stress in retail loans much like what was witnessed last summer, according to analysts.

The restrictions on movement, for instance, would have a bearing on the collection efforts of NBFCs, especially for microfinance loans, where cash collections still remain dominant.

"Post the nationwide lockdown last year, we had witnessed a severe drop in collections for most asset classes though the availability of a moratorium provided a breather from an NPA-recognition perspective. Early signs reflect that securitisation volumes in Q1 FY22 would remain muted," said Abhishek Daffria, Vice President and Head-Structured Finance Ratings, ICRA. Microfinance and unsecured

SME loan pools had reported the highest delinquencies last year post the end of the moratorium period, followed by vehicle and housing loans, or loan against property.

"In our view, the risk categorization would remain similar in the current environment but the geographical concentration of pools to regions where Covid cases are relatively higher and, thus government restrictions are severe, would matter more from a risk perspective," Daffria added. Securitisation of microfinance and SME loans had seen a 70 per cent year-on-year decline in fiscal year 2020-21.

Analysts at Nomura also expect forbearance for these loans to be extended which will help asset quality. ICRA added that commercial vehicle loans could also face stress if inter-state restrictions are imposed, though even the current partial restrictions would lead to lower fleet utilisation. Housing loans are expected to remain most resilient.

Rekha Menon appointed Nasscom's first woman chairperson

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ Bengaluru

ACCENTURE India chief Rekha M Menon was announced on Thursday as the first woman chairperson of India's apex IT industry body Nasscom. Menon, who was earlier a member of the executive council of the association, takes over from Pravin Kumar Rao, the Chief Operating Officer at Infosys.

In a video statement, Menon said that the ongoing Covid-19 pandemic continues to test the resilience of the sector, even as it has created new opportunities for growth with technology emerging as the lifeline for societies and economies across the world.

"As we cautiously navigate the pandemic, I look forward to working with the NASSCOM Executive Council and its members to drive our industry's long term growth by augmenting India's position as the digital talent nation for the world, driving people first innovation, and working with the government to create a conducive policy environment needed for sustainable growth," she added. Krishnan Ramanujam, President, Head of Business Technology Services at TCS, has also been made the new vice-president at Nasscom. The new executive council of the representative body comprises Microsoft India president Anant Maheshwari; Wipro chairman Rishad Premji, Salesforce CEO Arundhati Bhattacharya, and Snapdeal founder Kunal Bahl among others.

"I could not be more thrilled and excited to work with an amazing and humane leader like Rekha M Menon to shape the incredibly crucial journey ahead of us," Debjani Ghosh, President, Nasscom said.

Telemedicine platforms witness huge surge in users

BISMAL MALIK @ Bengaluru

WITH battling the second wave of the Covid-19 pandemic and the resultant exponential rise in cases and deaths, online healthcare platforms have seen a 200 per cent jump in their userbase over the past week. Data sourced from leading teleconsultation platforms in the country suggest that virtual queries related to Covid symptoms have increased by two-fold recently. Such platforms have also added several thousand doctors during the period.

Data shared by healthcare platform mfine revealed that for consultations, new users have increased by 100 per cent on a week-to-week basis even as the Covid case count across India crossed the 3 lakh mark.

The data also showed that the number of users who switched to online care delivery was up by 120 per cent in a week whereas telemedicine consultations jumped by 80 per cent, was led by the top four metros.

For Bengaluru-based healthcare start-up MediBuddy, which claims to have a 30 million userbase, there has been a two-fold jump in the number of people who sought online consultations. MediBuddy's CEO Satish Kannan told this publication that the platform has enabled new features like a Covid-19 Hospital Bed availability tracker to help distressed patients find the nearest available healthcare facility in an emergency.

"MediBuddy has also launched a 24*7 helpline support (08047193456), where coronavirus related consultation is provided free of cost with 30 minutes to all, MediBuddy has mapped and assisted over 60 lakh health check-ups since the outbreak," he said.

Such platforms are also now providing self-assessment tools, virtual SpO2 trackers, blood work-at-home offers, etc. Medifine said that it is providing at-home RTPCR facilities in four metros and demand for the same has surged six times in just three months. "Increase in demand for inflammation marker tests (necessary for covid positive, and may be recommended for covid symptom patients) like CRP, ESR, Serum Ferritin and D Dimer is up seven-fold," the company said.

Doomsday climate tipping points have wiggle room

What happens once apocalyptic, point-of-no-return climate predictions become reality? It need not be the end of the world

SCIENCE

PARIS: Global warming thresholds that could tip massive ice sheets into irreversible melting or see the Amazon rainforest shrivel into savannah have "grace periods", giving humanity more time to draw down planet-warming carbon emissions, researchers have calculated.

More than a dozen tipping points triggered mainly by rising temperatures could unleash catastrophic changes in Earth's climate system.

As the Paris Agreement goal of a 1.5 degree Celsius cap above pre-industrial levels slips out of reach, this is potentially very good news - although no reason to relax - scientists said.

Ice sheets atop Greenland and West Antarctic hold enough frozen water to lift oceans a dozen metres (40 feet), drowning cities and redrawing the planet's coastlines.

Greenhouse gases escaping from Siberian permafrost could overwhelm already belaboured efforts to curb man-made carbon pollution.

Monsoon rains in South Asia, the polar ice cap, coral reef ecosystems, the jet stream, the Amazon basin - all are vulnerable to point-of-no-return transitions that would radically alter the world as we know it.

Up to now, scientists have focused mostly on temperature thresholds and timing: how much warming will it take to trigger each tipping point?

The threshold for the two ice sheets is probably below 2C, and may have already been passed, experts say. To melt the permafrost, however, it will likely take at least another degree or two of warming.

But new research led by Paul Ritchie and Peter Cox from the School of Engineering, Mathematics and Physical Sciences at Exeter University asks a different question.

Once a tipping point tripwire has been triggered, can we row back by lowering temperatures, whether by sucking CO2 out of the air or injecting a sunscreen into the stratosphere?

In the study, published in Nature, Cox and colleagues looked at four parts of the climate system: ice sheets, monsoons, the Amazon basin and the ocean conveyor belt of currents that drives cold and warm water across the globe, known as the Atlantic Meridional Overturning Circulation (AMOC).

Ice sheets and ocean currents, they found through modelling, have slow-onset tipping points which unfold on a timescale of centuries.

This suggests that even if temperatures rise above the tipping point threshold and set in motion a profound change, there is still time to pull back from the cliff's edge by lowering the global thermometer.

"The slow timescale of some of the most worrying tipping points gives us a better chance of reversing global warming before we tip into a less favourable world," Cox said.

But the same timing does not apply to Amazon forest dieback and disruption of the monsoon, which could flip into a new state within decades, the researchers found.

For the Amazon, that shift is also hastened by massive deforestation.

Scientists not involved in the research agreed with the findings but cautioned against complacency.

Our analysis shows that it is possible to overshoot tipping point thresholds without leading to an abrupt and permanent climate change - as long as the overshoot is for a short period of time. There is a 'period of grace' once the threshold is crossed when it is still possible to avoid tipping

Reassuring mRNA data for pregnancy vaccinations

MEDICINE

ONE of the largest reports on Covid-19 vaccination in pregnancy bolsters evidence that it is safe although the authors say more comprehensive research is needed.

The preliminary results are based on reports from over 35,000 US women who received either the Moderna or Pfizer shots while pregnant. Their rates of miscarriage, premature births and other complications were comparable to those observed in published reports on pregnant women before the pandemic.

The new evidence from researchers at the federal Centers for Disease Control and Prevention was published in the New England Journal of Medicine.

Separately, the American Society for Reproductive Medicine on Tuesday endorsed vaccination in pregnancy, based on evidence it has been evaluating for over a year.

"Everyone, including pregnant women and those seeking to become pregnant, should get a COVID-19 vaccine. The vaccines are safe and effective," the society said.

An American College of Obstetricians and Gynecologists representative said the CDC report is promising but that longer-term follow-up is needed.

Although pregnant women were excluded from studies that led to emergency authorization for the vaccines, evidence showed no harms in women who were unknowingly pregnant when they enrolled.

EXFILE

Perseverance rover creates breathable oxygen on Mars

A small gold box on the Mars rover has used solid oxide electrolysis technology to convert Martian atmosphere to oxygen, the first time this has happened on another planet. And it's only the beginning

Why this is important

Not only can the process produce oxygen for future astronauts to breathe, but it could make hauling vast amounts of oxygen over from Earth to use as rocket propellant for the return journey unnecessary

CO₂ 96%

Producing oxygen from Mars' 96% CO₂ air might be a more feasible option than extracting ice from under its surface then electrolyzing it to make oxygen

SMALL STEPS

MOXIE alone cannot produce enough oxygen to make a difference for exploration efforts
MIT engineer Michael Hecht said a one ton version of MOXIE could produce the approximately 25 tons of oxygen needed for a rocket to blast off from Mars (Burning a fuel in the presence of an oxidiser gives rockets their thrust)

MOXIE'S SPECS

Designed at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, MOXIE was built with heat-resistant materials like nickel alloy and designed to tolerate the searing temperatures of 1,470 degrees Fahrenheit (800 Celsius) required for it to run

A thin gold coating ensures it doesn't radiate its heat and harm the rover

The power supply of Moxie limits potential production to 12 gms/hr - roughly what a large tree would produce

5.4 gms/hr

In its first run, MOXIE produced 5.4 grams of oxygen in an hour, equivalent to about 10 minutes of breathable oxygen for an astronaut carrying out normal activity

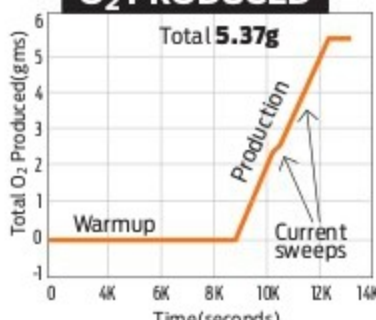

Inside Moxie, CO₂ is compressed and filtered to remove any contaminants

It is then heated, which causes separation into oxygen and carbon monoxide

Furthermore, the oxygen is isolated by a "hot charged ceramic component", and oxygen ions merge into O₂

Finally, carbon monoxide is expelled back into the atmosphere

Largest solar flare recorded

SPACE

Scientists have spotted the largest flare ever recorded from the sun's nearest neighbour, the star Proxima Centauri, a small but mighty star that sits just four light-years or more than 20 trillion miles from our own Sun and hosts at least two planets, one of which may look something like Earth. It's also a "red dwarf," the name for a class of stars that are unusually petite and dim, explained Meredith MacGregor, astrophysicist at the University of Colorado Boulder. For the study in Astrophysical Journal Letters, the team observed Proxima Centauri for 40 hours using nine telescopes on the ground and in space.

Coronavirus in Everest

HEALTH

A Norwegian climber hoping to summit Everest confirmed Thursday that he has tested positive for Covid-19, in a blow to Nepal's hopes for a bumper mountaineering season on the world's highest peak. The pandemic wiped out last year's season but Nepal has eased quarantine rules in an effort to attract more climbers despite the difficulties of treating them if they contract the virus. "My diagnosis is Covid-19," Erlend Ness told AFP in a Facebook message. "I'm doing ok now... The hospital is taking care (of me)." Ness was evacuated from the slopes by helicopter and taken to a hospital in the capital Kathmandu.

1000s of Indian troops in WWI not properly honoured by UK

HISTORY

LONDON: British authorities apologized Thursday after an investigation found that at least 161,000 mostly African and Indian military service personnel who died during World War I weren't properly honored due to "pervasive racism." It said that number could possibly range up to 350,000.

The Commonwealth War Graves Commission (CWGC) said an investigation found that the fallen personnel "were not commemorated by name or possibly not commemorated at all... In conflict with the organisation's founding principles, it is estimated that between 45,000 and 54,000 casualties (predominantly Indian, East African, West African, Egyptian and Somali personnel) were commemorated unequally," it said.

"For some, rather than marking their graves individually, as the IWGC would have done in Europe, these men were commemorated collectively on memorials. For others who were missing, their names were recorded in registers rather than in stone."

The CWGC said the failure to honour the troops was "influenced by a scarcity of information, errors inherited from other organisations and the opinions of colonial administrators." Underpinning all these decisions, however, were the entrenched prejudices, preconceptions and pervasive racism of contemporary imperial attitudes. It cited a 1923 conversation between Brigadier-General Gordon Guggisberg, the then-governor of British-controlled Gold Coast (modern-day Ghana), and the commission's Arthur Browne.

Guggisberg said "the average native... would not understand or appreciate a headstone", as he argued for collective memorials without individual names.

The CWGC was set up during World War I to remember Britain's war dead. It cares for war graves at 23,000 locations in more than 150 countries, commemorating nearly 1.7 million people.

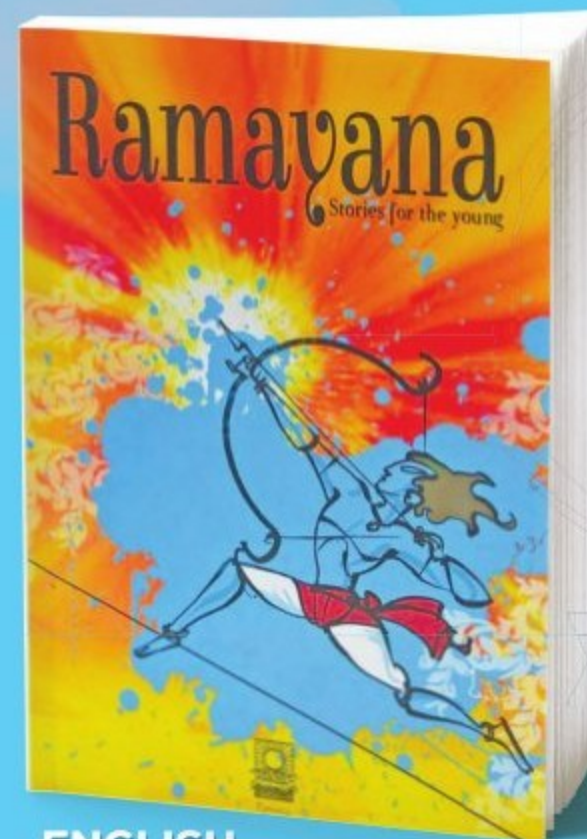

Wallace said there was "no doubt that prejudice played a part in some of the committee's decisions," adding that the government would fully implement the report's findings. These include "extending the search" for inequalities in the system and building digital or physical structures to honour the dead.
